Annual Seminar
Thursday 5th November 2009
9.45 a.m. – 3.30 p.m.

Engaging Young People in Civic Action and Learning

Courthouse Hotel
19-21 Great Marlborough Street
London W1F 7HL

The day will explore approaches to civic engagement through considering current research findings in the UK and international case studies.

Contributors include:

Dr. Hilary Cremin, University of Cambridge
Dr. Paul Warwick, University of Leicester
Professor James Arthur, University of Birmingham
Professor John Annette and Dr. Dina Kiwan, International Centre for Education for Democratic Citizenship, Birkbeck College, University of London
Brian Hill, Bafta-winning film director of A Climate of Change

The day will also include the Society for Educational Studies Annual Book Awards.

Free to members of the Society for Educational Studies. Non members are also welcome for a fee of £22 payable on the day which will automatically enable them to become members of the Society.

To book a place contact:
roma.woodward@canterbury.ac.uk
Annual Seminar
Thursday 5th November 2009

Courthouse Hotel
19-21 Great Marlborough Street, London W1F 7HL

Engaging Young People in Civic Action and Learning

Programme

9.45 a.m.  Coffee

10.00 a.m.  Welcome and Introduction

10.15 a.m.  Civic Engagement: Current Research
Dr Hilary Cremin, University of Cambridge
Dr Paul Warwick
University of Leicester
Prof James Arthur, University of Birmingham

11.05 a.m.  Civic Engagement: International Perspectives
Brian Hill, Managing Director, Century Films
Director of A Climate of Change

11.55 a.m.  Questions to speakers and discussion.

12.30 p.m.  Book Prize

12.45 p.m.  Lunch

1.45 p.m.  Deliberative Democratic Engagement and Learning
Democratic Citizenship
Professor John Annette
Educating for multicultural and multinational citizenship
Dr Dina Kiwan,
- both of the International Centre for Education for Democratic Citizenship, Birkbeck College, University of London

3.00 p.m.  Questions to speakers and discussion.

3.30 p.m.  Tea and AGM