The 13th International CitizED Conference ‘Global citizenship and youth work: educational meanings, possibilities and practices’ will explore the provision of global citizenship through non-formal and informal education. The concept of youth work is a new idea in many educational contexts. We will discuss what youth work means, how it relates to education and what possibilities exist for its future development in relation to global citizenship. We will explore the various concepts and implementation strategies for global citizenship in different contexts. We provide a warm invitation to scholars from around the world. We invite proposals for a wide range of empirical and conceptually-based papers.
